INTERESTING DEBATE HELD LAST EVENING

Arts Defeated Law by 30
Points

GOOD ORATORY

Dean Suggests that Professional Critic Render Decisions

The Arts faculty team won their debate last night between Arts and Law,
the former being 30 points ahead of the latter. A. E. D. Tremaine was in the chair and Dean Laing, the Hon. Adrian K. Huggessen and W. H. Bigger were the judges. The teams were as follows,
Law:—S. D. Pierce, O'Hagan and H.
Batshaw. Arts:—J. Everitt, Penrose and H. Wells. The resolution read
'Resolved that the present system of government ownership of railways in Canada should be abolished.' The affirmative was upheld by Law, the negative by Arts.

Pierce opened the debate for the affirmative, that the present system of railway management had been a failure
by saying economically and politically.
The debt had ranged from $40,000,000
to $70,000,000. Politically the country now faces financial ruin. People are made to pay for the foolishness of a few self centred contractors of the past,
said Pierce.

The delay and incompetency of the present system could be appreciably diminished. Sir Henry Thornton had been appointed, it is true, but his appointment was three years too late, concluded Pierce.

Everett first speaker for the negative pointed out, that the railway situation in Canada was a unique one there being two systems of railways, public and private-owned. Above both these was a railway commission. The financial conditions had been bettered. A deficit of $36,000,000 had been reduced to $1,000,- 000 up to 1922 which is an enormous improvement. Everett said the amount of money that the government gave to the C.P.R. will never be realized till the angel Gabriel opens his books. Everett concluded by asking why a system which is beginning to look up should be thrown over.

O'Hagan speaking for law stated that in the past the government would afford to give over large sums of money,
but that at present such a thing was impossible. He said that the physical condition of the national railways was singularly bad, and gave examples. He declared that the railways have to bow to public opinion disregarding the fact that the public are for the most part absolutely ignorant of the road conditions along some of the lines. In regarding this there is need of private ownership. O'Hagan maintained it is impos-

CANADA'S DEBT TO MIDDLE AGES

Topic of Interesting Lecture
by Prof. Waugh

The lecture on "What Canada owes to the Middle Ages," was delivered by Professor Waugh in the Royal Victoria College yesterday afternoon at 5.15 p.m.

Professor Waugh brought out the predominant legacies which Canada has inherited from the principal nations of Western Europe, and especially France and England, with a thoroughness of which any man would be proud to be able to treat. A large audience was present, thus showing that the undergraduates of the University do not fail to take advantage of an opportunity rarely presenting itself
to acquaint themselves with the particulars relating to Canada's indebtedness to the past for what she possesses
at the present day.

Professor Waugh commenced his talk on the presence of old mediaeval landmarks in the Province of Quebec
where Frenchman and Englishman
alike owe so much to the Old Country.
He remarked upon the presence of the religious orders in the Province as proof of the fact that the influences which bind Canada to the past are not to be ignored, the religious orders having been founded in the year just following the fall of the Roman Empire.
During the last three hundred years
the Church of Rome itself has played a part in Canadian history which will forever remain indelibly stamped upon the future annals of the country.

The speaker then continued to mention predominant facts which daily pre-

NOTED MAN SPEAKS AT MED. DINNER

Dr. George W. Crile Guest of Honour

FAMOUS DOCTOR

Few Tickets Left for To-Mor-row's Banquet at Mt. Royal

Final arrangements have been made for the Medical dinner to be held on Saturday night at the Mount Royal Hotel and all that remains is the checking up of the number who intend to be present. Indications up to the present time point towards a large number of guests,
and it is thought that during the next few days enough tickets will be sold to make the affair a record one as far as numbers are concerned.

Dr. George W. Crile who is to be the guest of the evening is expected to arrive in Montreal early Saturday morning,
and at a quarter past ten he will deliver a lecture in the main operating room of the Royal Victoria Hospital. To this clinic the members of the fourth and fifth years are invited and undoubtedly there will be great difficulty in accommodating the large number which will be present.

The subject of Dr. Crile's address in the evening is as yet unknown, but the reputation of the man is sufficient assurance that the talk will be a most interesting one. Dr. Armstrong, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, and past President of the American College of Surgeons, in speaking of Dr. Crile referred to him as "one of the most interesting men in the Surgical profession to-day"
and classed him and the great John B.
Murphy and W. J. Mayo as the outstanding triumvirate of surgery in the New World.

The zealous dinner committee have been working hard during the past few days putting the final touches to their arrangements, and promise an affair of outstanding quality. An orchestra has been secured to provide music for the diners.

A few remaining tickets are still on sale and are available to students of the different years. These can be secured from the class representatives of the dinner committee. It is an important matter however, that all who intend to be present buy their tickets immediately, as the committee intend reserving accommodation in the hotel for a limited number only.

Replies have been received from most of the members of the Faculty signifying their intention of being present. A

"BEHIND THE BEYOND" WITH THE ALUMNAE

Members of Staff win Success
in "Diminutive Dramas"

LARGE AUDIENCE

French Playlet Given in Vivacious Manner

A delighted audience which complet-ly filled the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College last night was conducted by the players of the McGill Alumnae Society through the classic realms of ancient Greece and Rome, and from Saxon England and mediaeval France to the fanciful country of nonsense behind the beyond. The programme presented was a wide one, and gave ample scope for much of the talent
now shown to be latent in the faculty.
The audience was enthusiastic, and expressed itself in no uncertain manner,
the appreciation of the excellence of the acting, being strengthened and augmented by the somewhat unholy joy of watching a grave and reverend professoriate
disport itself with the abandon of genuine comedy.

If a choice must be made, where selection might seem invidious, the final playlet—a pantomimic presentation of Dr. Leacock's "Behind the Beyond"—may perhaps be granted the fullest measure of praise. Professor F. E. Lloyd, who read the sketch as the story was acted in pantomime, succeeded in inflecting his voice with every shade of nuance, and was responsible for much of the success of the comedy. "Behind the Beyond" is a delightful burlesque upon that serious anomaly—the problem play, and tells how a young and beautiful wife, (Miss Winifred Birkett)
loved-starved in the atmosphere of jewels and wealth showered upon her by her elderly husband (Prof. Waugh), found solace in the arms of a youthful lover, played with a veteran's skill by Professor Matthews.

Professor Matthews' interpretation of the role of the "weak" Mr. Harding was one of the features of the evening, and amid the hysterical laughter of the audience he brought a rare abandonment to the comic spirit in his rendering of the passionate scenes. Professor Waugh was almost perfect as the ill-used husband, while Miss Birkett entered into the spirit of the comedy in a whole-hearted manner that left nothing to be desired.

A French playlet entitled "Depuis Six Mois" was produced by the Department of French, and called forth some of the best acting of the evening. Miss Hou-ren as Gertrude, the housemaid who could not be bribed to give notice, rendered a character sketch of rare fidelity and true old fashioned humour. Professor Du Roure, as the harassed husband, and Miss Mabel King as Dame Catherine

PRIME MINISTER V. BARRE RETIRES

Mock Parliament Meets on February 15

Political circles are again astir with the approach of the next session of the Mock Parliament on February 15. Following the sensational formation of a coalition of the Constitutional and Progressive parties, resulting in the maintenance of the Government on the question of punishing the now famous character of Ivan Bumovitch, who has been duly executed, caucuses were held by both groups and plans are now under way for another sitting, when a subject of live political interest will be debated.

It was announced yesterday at a caucus of the Constitutional party that the present Premier The Rt. Hon. V. Barre, would be unable to continue the arduous duties of the leadership personal reasons having forced him to retire from active public life. Barre expressed his keen regret at having to take this step, but said that in the interest of the coalition he thought someone with more time at his disposal should be selected to steer the ship of state.

It is understood that the retiring Premier and prominent members of his cabinet have recommended to the Governor-General that the Rt. Hon. R.
C. Jones who leads the Progressives in the coalition, be called upon to form a cabinet. The personnel of the new administration will be announced in a few days, and the re-organized forces will then prepare strenuously to meet their re-ennemies the Conservatives, when the House meets again on February 15.

THE THEATRE NIGHT.

The signal success of last night's performance should have the effect of heightening interest in the McGill Theatre Night to be held some time in March. The McGill Alumnae Society deserves great credit for the admirable production of the "Diminutive Dramas" in the Royal Victoria College. The caste, chosen from the professoriate and the graduates, was an able one, and showed the results of much careful preparation. The audience, which included numerous students, was appreciative of the splendid acting, and the expression of regret was general when the curtain fell for the last time at the conclusion of Dr. Leacock's cleverly rendered sketch, "Behind the Beyond."

The committee to direct the Theatre Night, composed of professors and students, appointed at the enthusiastic meeting held in the Union on Wednesday, merits the whole-hearted support of professors, graduates and undergraduates. It is only with such support that the entertainment may be thoroughly successful. The co-operation offered by the musical organizations, by the Electrical Club and twenty-five or so students at the meeting, is highly gratifying, and should enable the committee to make an immediate start.

In reviving the traditional McGill Theatre Night, its sponsors have gone a step further by their decision that the show will be entirely conducted by McGill people. The success of the monster parade to greet Admiral Sims suggests that a torchlight procession on the gala night from the Union to the theatre might be a supplementary feature to the acts to be played by each faculty of the University, the Royal Victoria College, and the School of Physical Education.

For many years, the McGill Theatre Night was one of the most outstanding events of the session, usually taking place in the fall, about two weeks after the commencement of lectures. The students marched in a body to the old Academy of Music, or to His Majesty's to witness the regular programme, not playing the parts themselves, although the galleries gaily decorated with McGill shields and red and white bunting, were by no means silent. The student audience was even known to get a trifle uproarious at times! Times are changed to-day, and the students as a whole have adopted a more dignified attitude, but we believe that all possess the same degree of that indescribable something called "college spirit." Let us make the 1923 McGill Theatre Night a real success.

DEBATING AT MCGILL.

Arts and Law met last evening in the first inter-faculty debate of the New Year. The three men upholding the honour of the Arts Faculty and the negative side of the resolution, indisputably earned the right to the favourable decision of the judges, which declared for those contending for the justification of Government Ownership in Canada. The debate may be regarded as a success. The number of those attending, while not so large as might have been the case, yet in view of the other events taking place at the same time, was gratifying. In the vote of thanks extended the judges, it appeared that last night was the fourth occasion upon which Dean Laing, of the Arts Faculty, had attended student debates in the last two or three months. The applause which greeted mention of this fact was indicative of the manner in which such concern by the Faculty in the pursuits of the undergraduate is appreciated by the latter.

The proposal for the institution of a Debating Coach was mooted at the gathering last evening in the judge's report. This is a timely question which has suffered from lack of attention at McGill, but which has received such in prominent colleges in the United States, where the position of a Debating Coach is a recognised office. It merits action if debating is to receive the consideration and retain the place due it at McGill.

The proposition has frequently been stressed, and there the matter has ended. Debating requires supervision, and such can only be accorded it by one with the time to spare, the incentive to organise debates and ability to criticise the speakers in such contests.

sible with government owned lines to make profits. He concluded that the public should not be expected to pay taxes to maintain institutions which are losing money.

Penrose, the next speaker for the negative said that the G.T.R. report recently published showed an improvement in finance of $10,000,000 for the first eleven months of 1922—40,000 tons of new rail had been laid. Private ownership detrimental to colonization, the great need of Canada to-day. "Private railways are out for immediate profit, national railways are out to aid in national development", Penrose finished his remarks by saying that Canadian national railways were out for "Canada first", "Dividends lastly".

Batshaw for law asserted that a debate was purely economical problem. Referring to an allusion of the previous speaker he mentioned that tourists are not necessary to a railway's success, but rather freight. In Canada there is a partial system of ownership very different from total ownership. This putting as it were C.N.R. vs. C.P.R.

Wells, speaking for the negative said that the railways were a success before the government took hold of them. "The government had given them money and put them in good condition. Neither parties are opposed to the present system so it cannot be called a political failure."

If the system should fail it would be the fault of the bickering of petty politicians and not of far-seeing men.

Pierce in his rebuttal refuted arguments right and left and very briefly summed up the remarks for the affirmative side.

The Dean in giving the judges decision, said that Arts had won by 10 points for delivery and 20 for material. He advised the scrapping of notes as a means of improving the speaking. He said that Mr. Bonar Law had made his name because of his ability to remember statistics in his speeches, thus doing away with notes and getting more interest from his audience.

He suggested in closing that a professional critic be appointed to attend debates and to give criticisms of all the speakers. This he said would be an invaluable aid to the participants, especially in the preliminary debates.

The Editor,

McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Friday, Feb. 2, the statement is made regarding the wreath placed semi-annually upon the statue of the late Queen Victoria, namely, that "the donor is an American lady."

However, eagerly we welcome all signs of international friendship between the two great English speaking peoples of the world, we must correct the above, and affirm most emphatically that this loyal act comes from a lady who owns Scotland as her birthplace, who resided for some years in this city and later moved to New York City.

Her husband has never taken out naturalization papers in the United States, so that the donor of the wreath is still a British subject.

The fact that this constant tribute to our late Beloved Queen has been paid anonymously, would almost make it a foregone conclusion that the donor is a British subject. Vincit amor patriae.

JESSIE BROWN.

Feb. 8, 1923.

The Editor,

McGill Daily:

Sir,—For the last few days there has been brought to the notice of the Student body, the fact that the Union Tuck Shop wishes to dispose of certain nuts. There is, after all, nothing wrong either with the selling of the nuts or the eating of them, after they have been purchased; but surely, Sir, something can be done in the method of advertising these articles. I do not wish to launch any destructive criticism but, to open one's Daily, and to see an advertisement written in the manner of to-day's, is surely almost an insult to the students of McGill. Of course I may be mistaken and perhaps this style does appeal to a certain percentage of the Student body; but I hope, for the good of the University as a whole, that this percentage is small, if not negligible.

That it is necessary to advertise is taken for granted, it is a fact and cannot be disputed; but let us have a good, straight common sense statement unadorned by ungrammatical slang, which, though commendable on the football field, is bald and unconvincing if read in cold blood or during a nine o'clock lecture.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

MCGILL C.O.T.C.

Contingent Orders by

LT.-COL. R. R. THOMPSON, M.C., Officer Commanding.

Week ending February 18th, 1923:
Orderly Officer—Lt. A. I. Olmstead.

Next for Duty—Lt. T. H. Weldon.
Orderly Sergeant—Sgt. D. D. McGoun.

Next for Duty—Cpl. J. L. Balleny.

INSPECTION.

The Annual Inspection of this unit is postponed to Thursday, February 15th, and will be held in the Craig Street Drill Hall at 8 p.m. Every officer and man on the strength of the unit must be present at this parade. Permission to stay away can only be granted on the strength of a medical certificate. Absence without such permission renders a man inefficient.

Dress—Uniform—All ranks will wear field-service caps. Black or dark brown boots will be worn. Light brown boots will not be worn. There can be no exceptions to the rule that all ranks must turn out properly dressed in uniform. Men must take particular care that their putties are properly rolled. The buttons of both great coats as well as jackets must be well cleaned, as the parade may be held in great coats. For the sake of the reputation of this unit and this University all ranks must appear as smart on parade as possible, with regard to uniform and everything else.

EXAMINATIONS A AND B.

The practical portions of this examination will be held as follows:—
Friday, Feb. 16th at 8.15 p.m. Craig Street Drill Hall—Drill and Musketry.

Sunday, Feb. 18th at 10 a.m. at the Main Entrance Loyola College—Tactics.

PROMOTIONS.

FOOTBALLERS MUST FIGHT SAYS COACH

Team Should be Men of Iron Nerves

THIRD LECTURE

Backs Needed for Line and Broke on Field Runs

Last night Coach Shaughnessy, in his third of series of lectures, impressed upon the hearers the necessity of instilling into the football team that fighting spirit which so often has carried a weaker team to the top of the league. He quoted a missionary who maintained he could put out a team of maniacs who would go through all the college teams in America. "That is what we need," said the coach, "a team of raving maniacs, of fighting fools, who don't know when they are beaten, and so will win the game."

These lectures which Coach Shaughnessy is giving, have been misnamed lectures. In fact, they are no more lectures than the speeches of Col. George Ham are lectures. Frequently the coach draws on his unlimited supply of anecdotes and illustrations which have become classics in the history of football. These lectures are indeed well worth going to, whether a football star or a rooter.

In opening his address, Mr. Shaughnessy showed the great need in which McGill stood for three good half-backs. Two men are desperately needed who can run and pass the ball, and one who can catch and pass. These men must also be capable of going up and taking their full share in the line work, in opening holes, etc. The need of these can hardly be even estimated. The veteran coach told how in former years half backs had been sent up to their line and had not taken their full share of the line work. They could never be made to understand that when up in the line they were to take on the full duties of a line man. In speaking of the catching of the half back, he maintained that the misses and fumbles made in a game are due to a great extent to nervousness. This has been shown again and again. In the fall the ball was kicked from the top of the Stadium and the men caught it 99 times out of the hundred. These kicks were one hundred per cent higher than those occurring in the games, and still the half backs missed almost a third. At this point Mr. Shaughnessy pointed out that in practising it was useless to go through the plays that were already good. It was on the poor points that much drill and practice was needed.

The back or defence line next came into the discussion. It was explained that the kind of game played by the defence depended to a great extent on whether they were playing defensive or offensive game. If the line proves itself to be weak, the backs must come up. The method of passing was fully explained.

In closing the coach insisted that the only way McGill can make up her lack of experience in the team is to get a collection of raving maniacs and send them out into the field. He showed that frequently a team gets the ball within four or five yards of the line and fails to put it across. The reason is that the defensive team are up against it; they have their backs to the wall and as a result have their fire aroused. It is this fighting spirit that will carry McGill with it, and it is the only thing which will do so.

M.S.P.E. WINS FROM MACDONALD COLLEGE

By winning from Macdonald last night the Physical Eds. have now three victories to their credit. This gives them the first place in the league standing. The game was not an exciting one—the ice was sticky and the skating slow. The winners showed some good combination at intervals, but the shooting was not up to their usual standard. The only goal was scored at the end of the third period, when Miss Powell received a pass from Miss Flanagan, and deftly flicked the puck into the nets. Miss Low, the Macdonald goalkeeper, played a steady game for her side, and made some good stops. Referee: J. Lynch. The line-ups were as follows:

FRESHMAN-SOPH. BASKETBALL ENDS

Play-off Betw en Med. '27 and '28, Feb. 19.

McGill is represented on the basketball floor this year, besides the senior team, by two intermediate and one junior team. These teams are picked from the University at large at the beginning of the season.

This session so much interest was evinced by men who could not make these teams that the basketball club decided to form a new league, known as the Freshman-Sophomore League. The schedule was drawn up so that the first year teams played games among themselves, and the sophomores likewise. This schedule has now been completed, and a play-off between the best teams in each division, namely, Med. '27 and Med. '28, is to take place in Molson Hall Feb. 19, at 5 p.m.

It is not surprising that several of the teams entered displayed very little interest, but it is worth noting that the majority of teams had more men turning out than it was possible for them to use.

First year Arts had a rather strong team, but lost one game. Medicine ran away with things in both sections, and the play-off should be very interesting. The least that the members of the class of Med. '27 and '28, who are not on the team, can do, is to use an hour of their valuable time on Feb. 19 to support their teams. The game should also appeal to the undergraduates of all the first and second years as well. The final standing is:

DENTS DEFAULT GAME IN ALL STAR LEAGUE

The scene was all set for a tough tussle between Dents and Science in the Faculty All-Star League yesterday. Science turned out a fine line-up of huskies, but unfortunately Dents were only able to put four men on the ice. This is the third time Dents have defaulted games. It is suggested that if they elect a Faculty Hockey Manager as other faculties have done, they might in future be able to put up a good showing in the league, as they have some very fine material.

OTHER CAMPUSES

WHAT NEXT?
Co-eds at Indiana University, it is rumoured, are going back to the old-fashioned shawls. The new shawls are made of silk and are all colours of the rainbow. They are worn knotted around the neck, regular cow-girl style.

LUCKY DOGS.
Colgate University will soon have a new gymnasium and a new dormitory added to the many buildings now on the campus.

FRESHIES REBEL.
Seniors cannot tell freshmen from other years at Iowan University; so freshmen are compelled to wear green caps all through the year. They were finally forced to wear them by the Students' Council.

CO-EDS, NOTICE.
One-third of the Co-eds at Washington University earn part expenses as stenographers and library work. It is rumoured that students of that University do a lot of work in the library.

NEW FIELDS FOR BUSINESS SCHOOL.
From Harvard comes the news that extensive new fields had been opened in the business school, namely, three topics of wide interest, public utility management, insurance and real estate management, and a review of the development of the system of teaching business administration by means of business cases.

CAN'T MOVE SCHOOL.
A curious bit of news comes from Indiana University to the effect that an old document drawn up in 1855 has been "unearthed" which provides that, under no circumstances can the State University of Indiana be removed from the city of Bloomington.

EXCITEMENT DURING EXAMS.
Illinois students had quite a thrill during their mid-year examinations. There was an exciting but bloodless smashup of a student's automobile on the campus. Luckily the excitement soon subsided with no one the loser but the owner of the car. McGill missed all the thrills during her exam. week—at least there was no rumors as to particular excitement besides a few agonized groans here and there.

SKI TEAM COMPETES WITH U. S. COL EGE

Are Entered in Annual Dartmouth Carnival

The McGill Snowshoe and Ski team is at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., to-day, where they are competing with six American colleges in the Annual Dartmouth Carnival.

The Red and White squad consists of eight skiers, who are looked upon as promising contenders for high place in the tournament.

A. L. Gravel, who took first place in the ski jumps last Saturday, should, with fair luck, place at Hanover. In the cross-country, Whittall and Wade will run, while G. Grimson and D. R. Anderson are entered for the snowshoe cross-country. E. A. Sherar and A. O. Leslie are expected to show up well in the ski proficiency, and Anderson and M. M. Mitchell will speed over the distance of the snowshoe dash.

A. D. Starke and W. MacKlaire have been melting the snow in the slushes here, and will very likely continue to do so over the border. The team is undoubtedly weakened by the illness to Tom Brown, who is an all-round skier, but R. S. Wade is substituting for him, and should prove reliable in all but the short distance. D. R. Anderson is accompanying the team as manager.

Floche lost no opportunity of getting the utmost from their parts, and with Professor Tyndale were called several times to the curtain at the conclusion of the playlet to receive a well-deserved measure of applause.

Of Maurice Baring's three Diminutive Dramas, "Lucullus' Dinner Party" was perhaps the most appreciated. The satire, aimed against the trivial follies of the present-day as in ancient Rome, is clever and well-sustained, and there is more action than in the other two sketches.

Prof. Brodie Brockwell, as Lucullus gave due significance to every word, gesture, and tone, and gave a fine rendering of the sophisticated dinner-loving patrician. Miss Muriel Wilson as Claudia, and Professor Carrie Derick as Portia were exceedingly good, while Mr. Quayle deserved the large measure of applause which he won for his interpretation of the harassed cook. Mr. Quayle also did some fine work as the stolid old yokel in "King Alfred and the Neat Herd". Professor Matthews, the unfortunate king who quoted triolets to an unsympathetic listener and Miss Margaret MacNaughton as the shrewdish countrywoman, also contributed largely to the success of this playlet.

"After Euripides 'Electra' is a satire on the highbrow critics and afternoon tea-drinkers who judge the literary production of the time by the most superficial standards. The satire of these "Diminutive Dramas" is directed against the follies and foibles of the present time, and achieve this by transplanting them to the days of ancient Greece and Rome. Euripides latest play is discussed much in the manner that one might talk of a new production by Shaw, and even in the Athens of antiquity "modern music" is accused of being nothing more than a noise.

A very delightful programme was the general verdict as the large audience dispersed at the conclusion of the performance and one the general nature of which will bear repetition.

MEDS. TIE IN FAST INDOOR BASEBALL

On Wednesday night, the fastest game of indoor ball of the season was played in the Baron Byng School between Med. '25 and Med. '26. The game was about as even as it possibly could have been and finally ended in an 8 to 8 tie.

Early in the game, Med. '25 managed to bring in three runs, while in the same innings they blanked their opponents. Med. '26 then tightened up and while holding the other team well in hand, they brought in a few runs themselves. The scoring was even for the rest of the game, and it resulted in a tie as stated.

Both pitchers, Henry and Phillpott, pitched beautiful ball and retired the batters in quick order; the many strike outs were a feature of the contest. In the sixth inning, Med. '26 made three outs on five pitched balls, two of them being caught fouls, and the other an out at first.

Fielding of both teams was almost right, and there were only one or two extra base hits. Med. '25 were forced to play with two men absent, and were thus under a handicap as far as fielding was concerned.

The play-off will take place on Monday night, and the winning team will play Arts '26 later in the week for the championship. The game will be played either at the Baron Byng School or at Montreal High School, if the latter is available. The exact arrangement will be announced in the Daily in a day or so.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HARRIER CLUB

Election of Officers in Union at 5.15.

The policy of the Harrier Club for the ensuing year will be decided at the annual meeting to be held in the Music Room of the Union at 5.15 p.m. sharp to-day. During the past season the club has been enlarged by many new runners who should next fall figure prominently both in the interclass and interfaculty races, and also in the intercollegiate competition which will be held in Toronto. Whether a team is to be sent to the States and whether members of the club will enter in a larger number of Canadian meets will largely be dependent on the decision arrived at this afternoon. It has been suggested that a team be sent to Dartmouth, Cornell, Syracuse, and other American Universities, but as these colleges are arranging their schedule now, it is imperative that McGill should take active steps immediately in one direction or the other.

The election of officers will be made. Another item on the programme will be the awarding to R. H. Wiggins the silver medal which he won at the Intercollegiate Meet held in Montreal on November 4th, when the prominent harrier finished the 5 1/4 mile race close on the heels of Goforth of Toronto, thus winning one of the three coveted trophies offered for that race.

It is expected that every man who ran with the club last autumn and any man who intends to participate in its activities in forthcoming season will make it a point to be present this afternoon and to have his say in directing the future policy and drafting the 1923 programme.

sent themselves to the public eye to remind one of the presence of mediæval influence in Montreal itself. Notable among these are the pilgrimages to different shrines in the province and in the city. In considering this subject, he briefly mentioned the many different inventions of mediæval times which have proved so beneficial to the Dominion in modern times. A fitting conclusion was then added to the talk by summing up the two most important bequests of the Middle Ages to Canada, namely, the University and Parliamentary government. He then showed that all forms of present parliamentary government are either directly or indirectly copies of the English Parliament, while all types of Federal government find their origin in the United States.

The money a man saves by not helping others never does him so very much good.

Who Gets the Most for His Money?

THE fellow who buys haphazard—or the chap who puts his every-day purchasing on a business basis?

THE LATTER, OF COURSE. He is the one who reads the advertisements and discovers just where he can buy what he wants.

He is the one who realizes the great value of advertising when it comes to the important business of spending his hard-earned money.

The well-informed shopper ALWAYS HAS THE ADVANTAGE when it comes to stretching the dollars. And you can't possibly be up-to-date on the shopping news unless you make a practice of reading the advertisements.

The advertisements show you how to save money—and steps—and time. WATCH THEM CAREFULLY.

Anything that increase your purchasing power is working hard for you.

Make the advertisements serve you well.

MR. WANG ON THE TEACHING OF CONFUCIUS

Discussion Group Learns Fundamentals of Chinese Faith

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

Large Attendance at Meeting—Many Questions Asked

The fundamentals of the teachings of Confucius were set forth yesterday afternoon in an address before the discussion group on comparative religions by Mr. W. W. Wang of China, in Strathcona Hall.

Mr. Wang gave his hearers a short sketch of Confucius life before proceeding to a discussion of his teachings. Born in 551 B.C. in Shantung the founder of the sect at an early age entered upon his life's purpose of study. Amongst other productions he left over three hundred poems. More important was his early history of China. The famous annals of Confucius which are commonly attributed to the teacher, were the speaker pointed out the work of his disciples.

The importance of filial duties and loyalty to the King were amongst the outstanding features of the teachings enjoined by Confucius. Disobedience to parents was according to his code, the worst offence. Loyalty to the King as the basis of all order he strongly urged. Self-denial as a means of developing character was also strongly emphasized.

Comparing Christianity with Confucius teachings. Thus the result is that strict followers of this teacher ignore financial affairs, their accounting for the poverty of greater China. During Confucius time there were no economic problems and to-day China is suffering from this fact.

Comparing Christianity with Confucianism Mr. Wang said, one of the teacher's great sayings was, "Don't do to others what you would not have others do unto you." This is merely a negative rendering of Christ's doctrine. Confucius does not teach returning good for evil, for says he, "when a man does good unto you what then shall you do unto him?" Nor does he believe in the maxim—"love your enemies". One of his sayings is—"Do your best and have the rest" and another the equivalent of "Pay attention to your own affairs".

Confucius hated hypocrisy, he said that was it was a destructive weapon to virtue.

Throughout the teachings of Confucius the two great points emphasized are first Filial Duty and second Loyalty to the King.

Regarding the first he taught it was the duty of everyone to love and obey one's parents and after death to bury them, not lavishly but as one's means permitted. He did not believe in ancestral worship.

Confucius discouraged all unrest. Accordingly China as a result is a peaceable country. "Too peaceable" said Mr. Wang for he had taught otherwise, China would have wiped out Germany during the war unaided. All the teachings were in one language naturally, but Confucius nevertheless did not believe in possessing two languages. So that there is much, as Mr. Wang pointed out, in his teachings that is not feasible to-day when so many Chinese are studying English.

Confucius had no idea as to prayer or life after death. It must be clearly understood that Confucius himself was considered divine. He did not teach of a life after life as other religious founders did. Many Chinese believe reincarnation, but this as the speaker pointed out is not connected with Confucianism.

Concluding a most interesting address, Mr. Wang said Confucius taught that one should not worship images for fear of incurring the anger of the Supreme Being—a deity which inhabited everything around us. Confucius was a great teacher a great reformer and it is possible to live out and follow many of his beliefs and teachings no matter what ones religion may be.

At the close of his address Mr. Wang answered many questions. Klineberg on behalf of those present thanked Mr. Wang for his most enlightening talk.

few of these men, and particularly those best known to the students, have been asked to say a few words at the dinner. An enjoyable evening of good fellowship is assured to all who turn out for the affair.

This dinner and the Medical Dance are the only two exclusively medical social functions of the year, and it is to be hoped that they will be as well patronized as in the past. The committee in charge invite particularly the members of the junior years who might otherwise be somewhat reticent about mixing in with their master brethren.

PREMIER OF NEWFOUNDLAND MEETS CLUB

Dinner Held at Mount Royal Hotel

ENTERTAINMENT

Sir Richard Squires Speaks of Conditions in His Country

On Wednesday Evening at 8 o'clock, the Honourable Sir Richard Squires, K. C. M. G., Prime Minister of Newfoundland, entertained about sixty-five Newfoundland McGill students at the Mount Royal Hotel. Among the guests of the evening were Dr. C. A. Peters, C. Paine and C. E. Whitley representing the Newfoundland Society of Montreal.

The first toast of the evening was to the King, following came the toast to the Newfoundlanders at McGill, to which Dr. Peters responded. Dr. Peters spoke briefly of the advantages which McGill offers and the advantages which McGill the youth of Newfoundland in seeking a University training in Canada, Great Britain and the United States. "You have made a wise choice in coming to McGill," said the speaker amid the applause of the students. In referring to the host, Dr. Peters spoke of the successful career of the Prime Minister, from the days he left Dalhousie University to the present time. The toasts to the Newfoundland Club of McGill and the Newfoundland Society of Montreal were responded to by their respective Presidents C. J. Blackler and C. E. Whitley. Alister Cave and Martin Cashin spoke briefly in response to the toast which was given to the Newfoundland Government.

C. F. Davis, B.A., proposed the toast to the Prime Minister, and in his remarks spoke very concisely and effectively of the Educational system of the Island home, and recommended certain changes which he believed would be to the advantage of every student seeking a University training. "In Newfoundland," said Mr. Davis "it should be possible for a student to obtain at least two years of an Arts Course." Then came the address of the evening as, amid applause, the Prime Minister arose to speak. To those who have not had the privilege of hearing Sir Richard, it is impossible to describe his powers of fascination and oratory. Sir Richard has a very youthful appearance, in fact when knighted two years ago, he was one of the youngest knights in the British Empire; coupled with a youthful appearance, there is a striking personality which reveals a spirit of perseverance and culture, a man, who purely through merit, has obtained the highest position in his country. The Prime Minister began by congratulating the Students on the choice of a University, for the name "McGill" is a byword in the world of higher education. Sir Richard spoke of the financial conditions in Newfoundland, he showed how since 1914 taxation had not been increased per capita half as much as in Canada. In Canada when the National debt is spoken of, reference only is made to the Federal debt, while in Newfoundland the National debt includes the Municipal debt as well. "Taxation in Newfoundland," said the Premier "is very light in comparison with England, and comparatively light in comparison with Canada or any other part of the British Empire." Sir Richard referred to the fluctuation which prevailed in the Foreign Markets where the Newfoundland fish was sent. Then, he spoke of the future outlook. Reference was officially made as to the success of his mission to Montreal with regard to the closing of the Wabana Ore Mines. The Humber proposition was dealt with, which in the opinion of the Premier will revolutionize matters in Newfoundland. The Harmsworth interests are about to establish a paper plant on the west coast of the Island, which will produce four hundred tons of paper per day; with this the fact was made known, that the Lord Northcliffe mills at Grand Falls are going to augment their present daily output by a hundred tons.

After dealing with other matters of importance, such as the recent fish treaty with Spain, the proposed agreement for two new additional cables to be laid to the Island in 1924, Sir Richard quoted one of the mottoes of the Rotary Club, "This is our Country—yours and mine. We fought for it then let us live for it." At this point the speaker waxed eloquent as he pictured home scenes and showed the amount of work which is to be done. To return to the homeland was the Premier's parting word; to work for the betterment of the land that is and will be forever dear to the hearts of thousands in Canada and elsewhere.

Jack—Jill, the club is giving a big dance to-night and we are invited of course.

Jill—Why, Jack, I can't go to any dance to-night my trunks haven't come.

Jack—Your trunks haven't come—why, what kind of a dance do you think this is going to be?—The Trumper.

Hotel Clerk—And you want a room and private bath?

Patron—Only kind I care to take.—Clancy News.

NO TUXEDOS AT INFORMAL DANCES NOW

Union House Committee Lays Down New By-Law

DANCE FEB. 16

Tickets at Reduced Price on Sale Monday Noon

This year there has been a certain amount of criticism expressed concerning the growing habit of more attending the Informal Dances, to wear evening dress. These dances were initially started for those students whose financial standing prevented them from attending the formal dances. During the last two years there has been a growing tendency towards evening dress at these informal fun-uns thereby defeating the purpose for which they were started.

This year so much adverse criticism has been levied that the House Committee feel a real injustice is being done to those students who wish to attend these dances in informal dress. At a meeting held early in the week it was decided to make a radical change. At various colleges in the States one of the most popular affairs of the year is a Tramp Dance in which all of the guests attend in their oldest and most dilapidated garments.

This, it was felt was too extreme a measure so it was decided that none of those attending the Informal Dance on Friday February 16th should wear evening dress. The proper and approved style for the occasion as laid down in section 999, Article 666 of the By-laws of the Union House Committee for "Prevention of Evening Dress at Informal Dances" is as follows:—Lounge suit, any colour—Collars and ties must be worn—Dancing pumps optional—Those wearing shoes over 12 inches will be taxed 25c for every inch thereof. This money to be placed in a separate fund called "Excess floor space tax."

Ladies—Afternoon dress—Hats must not be worn.

The success of the whole scheme depends upon the stand taken by the student body. It should be supported in order these dances may meet the need for which they were started.

After a great amount of discussion and arguments pro and con, it was finally decided that on an occasion like this extra special feature should be introduced, here it is. There will be a 1 per cent reduced in price. Tickets will go on sale at the Union on Monday February 12th at 1 p.m. for the nominal sum of $1.98. Special preparations are being made to hold back the crowd.

Be on hand at 1 p.m. and bear in mind that each ticket is sold on the understanding that each student lives up to the agreement. "No evening dress". It's success depends on you.

GROUP MEETS AT HALL TONIGHT

"Internationalism and Nationalism" for Second Time

This group will hold its second meeting to-night at Strathcona Hall. Mr. Bruchesi of U. of M. and J. H. G. Way of McGill are to read papers on "What Canada owes to the Anglo-Saxon element and to the French element." Following these papers a discussion will be by Prof. Desy of U. of M. and Prof. Du Roure of the Modern Languages Department.

Supper will be served at the cost of 25 cents at 6.15 and the meeting will begin at 7 o'clock. Miss Massey-Bailey and G. L. Van Vleet and F. R. Macpherson will be in charge of the supper.

WRITTEN EXAMINATIONS

The bureau of educational research has issued a bulletin on "Written Examinations and Their Improvement," discussing methods of improving examinations and giving examples of different types thereof. At present, with final examinations in full sway the criticisms and defenses of written examinations are interesting.

Among the criticisms found by the bureau are the beliefs that written examinations yield inaccurate measures of achievement stimulate undesirable mental processes, tend to become educational objectives, and injure the students' health. The defense is that they are necessary to measure the students ability, and that they furnish a motive for study and for reviewing and organizing the contents of the course.

Few people, no matter how radical in their opinion of the much discussed written examination, will fail to agree with at least one point on either side of the question. It is undeniable that students would fail—many of them—to study the course faithfully if there were no examination at the end of the semester to prompt it. Nor is there any doubt that the present system of final examinations cause much cramming during the few days previous to the examination itself, much of this cramming being of a decidedly unprofitable nature. It is difficult to say which argument outweighs the other.

And now comes the news that Purdue is to inaugurate the institution of final examinations next year. This action has been taken upon the suggestion of a committee appointed to investigate the advisability of the move. Purdue is practically the last of the well known technical institutions to adopt the system.

Purdue has long had a high standing in the educational field. Her students have been graduated without being subjected to final examinations. Whether the faculty committee proposed the adoption of the finals system to make the requirements similar to those in other institutions or because they were convinced that the old system was inefficient, was not said. The unpopularity of final examinations is strong in some circles, particularly with the undergraduate. This is more or less natural. But the bureau of educational research has attempted to advance some ideas on the subject. Think them over.—Daily Illin.

JUNGLE HOSPITALITY.

Well, what do you think of the savages you met on your trip to Africa? Oh! They were very kind-hearted people. They wanted to keep me there for dinner.

Newspapers have their bad sides. Many a man hides behind one on a street car to keep from giving his seat to a lady.

Most of the free things you enter are pay as you leave. Lots of girls think the dishes wash themselves.
